Chancellor Weekly Brief 6.15.2021

Dr. James Malm greets you from campus as we close out the month of June and look forward to August. Each week, there are incremental increases in our recovery and healing from this grueling and devastating pandemic.

As we work toward our return to campus this fall, the Gallup Indian Medical Center (GIMC) professional staff is playing an important role in our return to normal. And I'd like to thank you for making these vaccination events successful for our community.

In another sign that we are coming back, UNM Gallup will have a summer that will bring leadership throughout the region.

NEW MEXICO LEGISLATIVE FINANCE COMMITTEE

The effectiveness and accountability of our state's fiscal operations is a top priority of the state's $7 billion general fund, so we look forward to the committee meeting on campus while the LFC4.3 (. (o)4.3 (u)2.2 (rc)8.s

In that same spirit, we will welcome the New Mexico Legislative Finance Committee meeting on July 12th and 13th. This committee meeting will include legislators, staff, and other public members in attendance.

NEW MEXICO LEGISLATIVE INDIAN AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

And finally, the New Mexico Legislative Indian Affairs Committee is interested in holding a joint meeting of the committee with tribal leaders from tribes, nations, and pueblos regarding their economic development. Meetings are scheduled for

Office of the Chancellor

I'd like to invite our new UNM Gallup Lobos to apply for the TRIO/SSS Summer Lobo that begins on July 5th and runs through July 30th. This is a great summer bridge program that helps you make the transition to college life. Please go to our website at gallup.unm.edu to apply for the Lobo Academy.

Please stay safe and stay well.

Best Regards,

Dr. James R. Malm, Chancellor
Professor of Business
